Tamu of Kota Belud, which is open on every Sunday from 6am to 2pm, Along the way, you would see lush paddy fields and Mt. Kinabalu, the highest mountain of Malaysia and Borneo.Kota Belud is the hometown of the Bajau 'cowboys' who are Sabah's very own horsemen. This Sabahan native group is famed for rearing and handling of horses.

The quaint and lively little town affectionately addressed by the locals as KB is also home to Sabah's most vibrant and illustrious weekly 'tamu' market. The word 'tamu' means "meeting place"; up to this day it is very much a place where traders from the surrounding areas come together both for trading purposes and to discuss the latest events.

Visitors of the Kota Belud district will find many of Sabah's handicrafts here, muddled up with betel nut stalls, vegetables, dried and fresh fish, sarongs, pots and pans, and Taiwan-made electrical items. Once you walk into tamu, you will smell a mixture of different scents like wet market. Though it is a busy market, everyone is really relaxed. You can mingle with the friendly locals, and soon you will feel that you are part of tamu. Lunch at own cost and return to Kota Kinabalu around 1pm.
